

The University of Michigan Environmental Toxicology and Epidemiology Program Presents:
The 26th Annual Environmental Health Sciences Symposium

---

*“Resilience in the Face of Crisis:
An Environmental Health Perspective”*

---

Join us Thursday, February 25th from 10am to 2:30pm to hear from our invited speakers, participate in the student poster session, and engage with the speakers and EHS community during a virtual coffee chat.

Dr. Cathrine Hoyo, PhD

Epidemiologist and professor, studying the relationships between early life influences and chronic disease.

Dr. Abdul El-Sayed, MD, DPhil

Physician, epidemiologist, activist, and expert in health policy and health inequalities.

Dr. Christopher Golden, PhD

Ecologist and epidemiologist, interested in the human health impacts of environmental change.